"Spring is here! It bringeth great cheer! Loud sing the cuckoo."--Chaucer

BETHEL SPEAKS:

Going into the post office, one often sees a very charming and important member of the Bethel community—Miss Ida Packard, the local postmistress. She knows Bethel well, since she has lived there all her life. While at Gould she was a member of the girls' basketball team, which played some rousing games with neighboring towns. When asked about the changes in Gould, she recalled that the girls used to use the upper floor of the school building as a gym where the heating pipes were padded with heavy quilting for the girls' protection.

When Miss Packard began working in the post office, it was a third class office located where the Shoe Rack now is. Later it was across the street; then in 1942 it was moved to the present location. In 1944, Miss Packard became the twenty-seventh postmaster. Because she was brought up in this work, she doesn't find many problems and over the years has learned to like all phases of it. One of the things Miss Packard enjoys most about her work is attending conventions and meetings where she meets others in this work and gains knowledge of postal affairs.

When asked about problems in serving the public, Miss Packard replied that the post office must try to cooperate in all ways with the people, as it is owned by them. It's the job of the post office to give service; therefore it must always recognize the other person's point of view, although in general the public is very cooperative.

In this service, as in many others, modern conveniences have made the job easier. The automatic cancellor is a great time saver. And because of the installment of ball point pens, one no longer hears jokes about the scratchy straight pens in the post office. Around Bethel about the only problem remaining is one of snow, which often blocks roads and mail boxes in winter months; nevertheless, with the use of cars and trucks the mail usually gets through.

As for her personal life Miss Packard at present has no special hobbies, although she collects coins and stamps to a degree. She is planning to develop these collections upon her retirement.

Well, it looks like it is time to sort the evening mail, so this interview will have to close. Let's hope that we all get letters tonight.

GIRL ATHLETES HONORED

On Thursday evening at 6:30 one might have seen many girls in light, spring dresses heading toward Gehring Hall. They were going to attend the Girls' Athletic Association banquet. The dining room was filled with students, faculty and guests. The tables were attractively decorated with spring flowers and attached on the walls was equipment for sports. After grace was said, everyone sat down to a very enjoyable dinner. When dinner had been finished, the guest speaker, Mrs. Jean Sickles, the physical education teacher at Kents Hill, gave a very interesting and inspiring talk on the importance of physical fitness. We'd like to congratulate Mrs. Sickles for the fine talk that we should all benefit from. The presentation of awards followed as each representative gave deserving classmates their awards. Twenty-one sophomores, five juniors, seven seniors and two freshmen received their numerals for earning fifty points. Eight sophomores, seven seniors, seven juniors received their letters for earning at least eighty points. Our congratulations go out to these girls!

Finally the moment arrived which everyone had been waiting for, the installation of officers and managers. New class representatives were appointed for the coming year, too. The officers that were chosen were President—Nancy Lincoln, Vice President—Sally Burns, Secretary—Marjorie Dallinger, and Treasurer—Betsy Webster. Congratulations to the girls and also to all the managers and their assistants. We know they will do a great job next year.

When this was finished, a song written by Mrs. Gibbs and Sara Stowell was sung to Mr. Ireland. The evening was concluded by the singing of the school Alma Mater. Everyone was very satisfied with their awards and agreed that it had been a highly enjoyable evening.

GOULD GOES DIXIELAND

At eight o'clock on the evening of April 18, the doors of the William Bingham Gymnasium swung open wide to welcome about seventy gay revelers to a Dixieland ball. The Junior Prom, discontinued at Gould for ten years, was here again!

Through a myriad of red, white and black streamers could be seen the band, a swinging group hailing from North Conway under the direction of Jack Kelly. Three cleverly constructed darkies viewed the festivities from a box directly above the door. Others, more lifelike, carried trays of soft drinks and cookies to the guests down below. Though the theme of the Prom was Dixieland, the mood seemed to be "fun for all, and all for fun."

Only a lot of time and effort on the part of the juniors, coupled with good music and high spirits, could have made the Junior Prom the real success that it was.

OSCAR'S OBSERVATIONS

Doesn't it make you wonder at the sanity of the human race, as you read of the preliminary skirmishes at the current Geneva meetings? "It's gotta be a round table!" "No, we insist on a square table!" "We just won't sit down at a square table!" And all this while the world waits for sensible solutions to avoid a war which would blow both tables and all the sitters to a place where tables would be a purely academic topic of conversation—if any!

Have you had your Strontium 90 today? Breathe especially deep, because all the authorities say a little whiff won't hurt you. So let the scientists keep on playing for keeps with the incredibly thin layer of air which surrounds Mother Earth. It's much more important to explode a few score hydrogen bombs to see just how far we can go, until the atmosphere is poisoned beyond recall, and the genes of all future generations can produce strange mutations. Thank you, authorities! We owe you a debt we can never repay!

"Nuts in May," Lives Up to Name

On May 8 at 8 p. m. the curtain went up for the Senior Play, held in the William Bingham Gym under the direction of Mr. Thompson. The play was a three-act farce-comedy entitled "Nuts in May," by Cornelia Otis Skinner. The scene unfolded in Miss Skinner's (Laurel MacPherson) lavish bedroom on the morn of her Broadway opening. Despite her husband's Alden's (Linwood Small) attempts to keep the house quiet so that she could rest, many hilarious incidents proved to fill the day the innumerable interruptions. Her son Mike (Steve Yeaton) who had asked two girls, Victoria Shaw (Pat Philbrook) and Janice O'Neill (Lee Grover) to the opening, caused Miss Skinner much confusion, especially when she found out that Janice's uncle was the worst critic in New York, Watson O'Neill (Greg Shapiro). Her best school chum, Isobel, (Margie Morton) came in to give Cornelia a little assistance in the time of need, but she proved to be in the way most of the time. Then the playwright, Eve Carrington (Jane Greig), decided to change the script at the last moment which added to her woes which had rapidly accumulated. With a few screams and ahs, Shirley (Betsy Chapman) and Mary Ann, (Sue Appleton) two of Miss Skinner's more ardent admirers, interrupted her to get the atmosphere of a great star. During a television interview on "Person to Person" with Maggie Dell (Gail Gorab) as interviewer, Cornelia was bothered by Mrs. Shaw, (Jewel Bean), Victoria's mother, who had been invited to spend the afternoon with Cornelia. Much to the disgust of Marty (Mark Freeman) and Sam, (John Vinton) the two television technicians, the show was cut off because of an hilarious disturbance which involved an argument between Victoria Shaw and Janice O'Neill. The maid, Ethel (Pat Jackson), who threatened that she would quit, finally decided to remain faithful to the "sinking ship," along with Phelps (Larry Cummings), the doorman of Miss Skinner's ritzy apartment.

All in all "Nuts in May" was a very humorous play with the actors and actresses giving a splendid performance. It was an enjoyable evening for all and not one that will be soon forgotten, especially by the Seniors, as it is one of the highlights of the Senior year.

FUTURE HOMEMAKERS CONVENE

If you had happened to be in the vicinity of Gould Academy around seven o'clock on Saturday morning, April 25, you would have seen FHA girls rushing from all directions to board the bus bound for the State Convention in Augusta. The twenty-nine girls from Gould, accompanied by Miss Whitney, were among the 1,500 girls at the convention.

Sylvia Benson had the honor of running for State Treasurer. Dixie Lea Brown served as head hostess, and Evelyn Winslow attended a council meeting at the State House, Friday night, she being a District Chairman.

The morning session consisted of the business meeting with the reports of each state officer presented in skit form. Mr. Jan Kok, Maine's TV music teacher, led group singing and Dr. Warren G. Hill, Maine's Commissioner of Education spoke on the theme of this year's convention, "Teens with a Purpose."

The afternoon session was filled with entertainment furnished by various chapters. Among these were an international style show, vocal solo, pantomime, baton twirlers, a dance team, readings, and a litterbug skit.

The meeting concluded with an impressive installation ceremony during which the new state officers were installed.

At six o'clock the bus arrived back to Bethel and the weary FHA girls slowly walked away with the satisfaction of a well spent day and the words of Dr. Hill deeply imprinted in their minds, "Educate a boy and you educate a person, but educate a girl and you educate a family."

CHANSON FRANCAIS

The atmosphere of gay Paris filled the William Bingham Gymnasium on the night of April 25th, welcoming guests to the annual French Club party.

The gym was a whirl of color, suggesting a Parisian Street scene. Under a model of the Eiffel Tower in the center of the room, French peddlers' carts were filled with brightly-colored balloons. Tables along the sides of the dance floor, reminiscent of a sidewalk cafe, were gay with red-checked tablecloths, topped with dishes of tasty hors d'oeuvres. Candles stuck in wine bottles gave a romantic light. Posters of French life and silhouettes of champagne bottles and glasses adorned the walls.

Moving with the fluid grace of Spanish dancers, John Hill and Margi Dallinger gave exciting renditions of the rumba, samba, and tango. The highly professional job was certainly the highlight of the evening.

With petticoats flashing, a Can-Can chorus composed of Laurel MacPherson, Sue Appleton, Nancy Buckminster, Gloria Burris, Pat Philbrook and Beverly Blake performed this gay dance, long associated with the country France.

The last item on the entertainment program was a skit of one of Mr. Auger's classes with Gary Aluisi portraying Gould's French teacher. Entering the classroom juggling a tricky pair of skis, he conducted one of the most hilarious French classes in the history of Gould.

Refreshments of French horns and cold drinks were served throughout the evening while the guests danced to the haunting strains of such French songs as "I Love Paris" and "Autumn Leaves."

After an evening of enjoyment, the students departed with fond memories of one of the highlights of the school year. Thanks go to Mr. Auger and the French Club for making this a very successful party.

DON'T BE A CLUNK!

It is the desire of every human being, young or old, to be considered by his associates a good sport. There are various ways of interpreting this term. As applied to our school life, it is usually associated with athletics. Good sportsmanship does not, however, involve only the ability and willingness to become outstanding in a sport. A person's sportsmanship is judged by the manner in which he gets along with his teammates and his opponents.

Neither can sportsmanship stop with the participants; the spectators, referees, managers, players who sit on the bench, and even the coaches must be conscious of their sportsmanship.

Good sportsmanship, nevertheless, should not stop when we leave the athletic field. It carries over into all phases of school and home life. A person could be considered a great sport on the basketball court, but if he cheats on an exam or lies to his parents, he himself will know he is not an example of good sportsmanship.

During our days in school it is of utmost importance that we strive to develop a wholesome attitude toward our fellowmen. After all, we could look at life as one long game in which the final judgment is made, not on how much you gained, but how you played the game. R. L. W.

ON EDITORIALS

Probably the least read portion of any newspaper is the editorial page. Thus if you have read thus far, you're probably the exception that proves the rule. You usually dodge this portion because you're found it to be rather "preachy", if not dull. And you may be right, at that!

If rightfully guided, however, editorials may be "must" reading: they may exhort, plead, expose, argue, criticize: they may be humorous, witty, colorful. The column on a daily paper may recruit the services of the sports editor, finance editor, or any other specialist on the staff, altho usually a regular corps of writers is assigned to this "voice" of the paper—writers who have more time to develop distinct style and a balanced judgment.

Editorials usually reflect the political leanings and personal prejudices of the paper's owner, which is only natural. It's only when these opinions appear, in slightly disguised and "slanted" form, in the news columns themselves that a newspaper has betrayed its trust. This occurs seldom in a school paper such as this.

Much more could be said on this subject. However, gentle teenager and severest critic, thank you for getting trapped into reading to this final exclamation point!

Seniors Worth Knowing

JUDY WATSON

Judy, or "Wat," as she is more popularly called, was born on December 18, 1940, in Portland, Maine. Living in Kesar Falls, Maine, all her life, she attended school there until she arrived at Gould. Since she struck the Gould campus, Wat has been noted for her undying school spirit and activeness. There is hardly a sport or activity which doesn't have Judy's name gracing its list of participants. In sports she is outstanding. She has been on the class and Blue and Gold teams in volleyball, hockey, softball and basketball as well as on the Kents Hill teams of the last three named sports. Also concerned with sports is her membership on the Girls' A. A. Council for the past three years and present membership on the Gould A. A. Council. And have you ever seen her do her famous jack-knife on the tramp?

But sports aren't the only thing in Judy's school life; she has been in the glee clubs and band for four years. Judy also lends her vocal cords to the "Congo" choir on Sunday and is a member of the Pilgrim Fellowship at the church. In service to the school she has been a member of the Student Council for three years; as a senior she is now president of this important group.

As for hobbies, Judy loves sports, and whenever time and weather allow she can be seen playing tennis or softball with enthusiasm. In winter months Wat is game to try her skill at sliding down the snowy slopes. Another hobby is playing the piano; if you ever hear the notes of the graduation march coming from the girls' dorm you can be sure it's Wat playing. When next September rolls around she hopes to be seen on either the Springfield or Maine campus, where she will major in physical education. Anyone seeing her participate in a sport will agree that her success is assured in this field.

JOHN VINTON

John Vinton is one of those urbane seniors that everyone on the campus knows. John comes from nearby Lovell, Maine, and has gone to Gould for four years. During these four years he has been of great service to the school.

He has earned several awards of scholarship. His score in the National Merit Scholarship tests was high enough to qualify him for the finals. When we consider the many thousands that took the test, this is a real accomplishment and a real honor. He also was in the semi-finals for the National Honor Society Exams. He became a member of the Society during his junior year.

John is a member of the debating club and the French Club. He also has quite a number of hobbies. He is a stamp collector and a hi-fi fan. He has built a complete outfit, cabinet and all, during this last year. Other hobbies are hunting, reading, hiking, skiing, rock collecting and painting.

During recent years John has built for himself quite a reputation in journalism. He is the editor of boys' sports on the Blue and Gold staff this year and also is the editor-in-chief of the Academy Herald, doing quite a job in getting all those articles in. His dependability and knack for organizing were a big help then and always will be.

He plans to attend Wesleyan University in Middletown, Connecticut, next year and, without a doubt, will carry his reputation of good standing and perseverance there and any other place he chooses to go. The best of luck to you, John.

physical education. Anyone seeing her participate in a sport will agree that her success is assured in this field.

Club News

GLEE CLUBS

On Saturday, May 2, 1959, the Gould Academy Band and a mixed chorus of boys and girls traveled to Bridgton Academy. There, in Bridgton's new gymnasium, schools from all over the State of Maine assembled to take part in the Independent Maine Festival. The chorus sang such numbers as "Halleluia Amen," "Wonderful Guy," from the movie "South Pacific," "Ave Verum," "Five Men Went to Mow," and "Well, Anyway." We would all like to thank Miss Heal for chaperoning, and thank Mr. Owen for the wonderful job he did directing. This program was recorded and is being made into a record.

CAMERA CLUB

During the last weeks of school, Camera Club activities reach an exciting peak with preparations for the June show. Several members are finishing prints of pictures taken during the past year. These prints, together with others selected from past club exhibitions as well as many of this year's activity photos, will be on exhibit during Commencement week-end. The exhibition, an annual event, represents a portion of the work done by the club members during the previous years.

BAND

During the past five or six weeks the band has been working on numbers for various coming events. Planning ahead for the Spring Concert, it has been doing numbers such as "Light Cavalry," "Chorale," "Tugetta No. 1," "March Slav," and "Washington Post March."

Many members of the band participated in the music festival held on May 2 at Bridgton Academy. Some of the numbers which will be heard at the Spring Concert were used at their festival. At Bridgton our band combined with bands from several schools. The different pieces played at the festival showed the weeks of preparation and effort put in by the participants.

The band also has two numbers ready for the Senior Play: "Minuet" by Handel and "Rustic Overture."

On the morning of Wednesday, April 15, the Gould Chapter of the National Honor Society inducted new members.

At the morning assembly the room was darkened, and the four senior members, elected the year before, took their places with Mr. Ireland on the stage.

Following a brief talk on the history of the organization, given by Mr. Ireland, each of the four gave a short speech on one of the four determining factors. Ruth Willard spoke on Service, John Vinton on Character, Steve Yeaton on Leadership, and Lin Small on Scholarship.

Then the old members took candles and descended to the main floor. Here they "tapped" the new members and led them onto the stage. New senior members are Mary Jasper, Evelyn Winslow, Ruth Stevens, Pat Probst, Harriet Kneeland, Mark Freeman, and Jane Greig; junior members: John Todd, Pete Wheeler, and Don Christie.

In May the members will go to Kezar Lake for the initiation.

Book Reviews

Socrates was the Gadfly of Athens; Philip Wylie might be called the Gadfly of America, or at least the Sacred American Way. It is easy to see why anyone who has read his works either hates or worships him. No place is his gift for exposing the faults in our age better shown than in "Opus 21," a not-so-recent work. This author, who made "momism" an integral part of our vocabulary, has made his living by thinking and expressing his thoughts. If you can stand having your complacency shaken, having a few sacred cows removed and facing up to a few facts, read "Opus 21." If you'd rather not test your ideals, if you don't dare get a fresh view of yourself, don't under any circumstances even touch his books.

For any person who has even got so twisted up in his own words that he just gives up—in other words, for all of us—Rudolf Flesch has written an amazing book. In "The Art of Plain Talk" Dr. Flesch shows deep comprehension of the problems that face most people when they talk. However, he is not the sort to apply glittering generalities. He gets to the roots of the problems of self-expression. Perhaps what he says about vocabulary will step on a few toes; it makes sense, though. It makes sense....all expressions should make sense in some form. This is the basis of his book. This is his point, a point made in delightfully concise and clear English.

Klass Kapers

SENIOR KASS KAPERS

Those girls who worked on and participated in the apparatus demonstration well-deserve all of the compliments lauded on them by everyone; that's one way to keep fit, girls!

Many of the occupants of the rear seats in study hall have breathed sighs of relief as they have received notice of acceptance to college. Just think, classmates; next year we'll be sitting in the front seats once again.

Mr. Ireland recently announced the honor parts in the class; fourteen students, over fifteen per cent of the class, had averages of 85 or over. Top honors went to Linwood Small, who, in four years at G.A., has achieved a phenomenal 95.63 average. Quite passable, William! Harriet Kneeland is our salutatorian, having amassed a very respectable 90.66 average for her four years at Gould. Congratulations to both of you and to the entire class for making such a fine scholastic showing.

Felicitations are in order for all seniors who helped put on the beano game and dance a short while ago. It was very successful and everybody seemed to enjoy the change of pace.

Graves, Don Christie, Don Angvine, Stan Clark, John Todd, and Mike Hathaway. Keep up the good work, boys!

The junior girls are also very active in sports. On the varsity softball team, bound for Kents Hill on May 9, are Bunny Blake, Carol Bean, Llona Keniston, Sylvia Benson, Doti Kimball, Nancy Lincoln, and Barbara Angvine.

The following girls represent the junior class on the Kents Hill tennis team: Sue Saunders, Sandra Cole, and Betsy Webster.

Good luck to the girls on both teams!!

SOPHOMORE NOTES

Our congratulations go to Bill Call, Jeff Newsome, and Fred Lincoln for receiving skiing letters.

We are also proud to say our classmate Elizabeth Jackson won a local contest sponsored by the light companies of Maine. Then she went to the University of Maine to enter the competition there.

Good luck to all boys participating on the track and baseball teams this season.

Best wishes to that girl with the sparkle on her left hand.

JUNIOR KASS KAPERS

Congratulations to the handful of juniors who made the Honor Rolls for the third ranking period!

We also wish to congratulate three very deserving junior boys who were elected to the National Honor Society this spring: Don Christie, John Todd, and Pete Wheeler. We know they've worked hard and really deserve the honor.

The Junior Prom, which was the first ever held at Gould, provided an evening of entertainment on April 11. The juniors did a great job in preparing for this, and we know everyone had a wonderful time.

Congratulations to Pete Swallow, who was elected co-captain of next year's ski team, and to Pete Wheeler, who is captain of the basketball team for the coming year! We know you'll do great jobs.

The juniors also have many representatives on the varsity baseball team and on the track team. On the baseball team we find the following names: Doug Rice, Steve Watson, Pete Wheeler, Paul Collins, and Clarkson Edwards. The following names can be found on the track team: Pete Karpowich, Richard

FRESHMAN KASS KAPERS

Congratulations, Nancy Cole and Beth A. Brown, for being the only two Freshman girls to earn fifty points by participating in all athletic activities, and being able to attend the Girls' Athletic Association Banquet on May 6, 1959.

With fourth term warnings out again I guess a few of us will have to watch our steps in certain subjects.

The Freshman Class has finally chosen its class colors. They are maroon and white.

HUSKIES TRIUMPH IN TRACK MEET

April 25 brought Gould playing host to Stephens and Mexico, its first track meet of the season. Saturday turned out to be a wonderful day, enabling a large attendance of spectators. For the first meet, Gould showed good depth in most of the events; a most well-rounded team is expected this year.

Pete Karpowich was the most outstanding man of the day, racking up a total of 16 points by scoring first in the broad jump and pole vault and second in the high hurdles and 440. Freddy Lincoln also sparked along with Don Angvine, scoring sixteen and twelve points respectively.

In the discus event Mike Hathaway of Gould won the event with a scale of 129 ft. 3 1/2 in. Larry Cummings and Jim Linnell of Gould followed Mike respectively. Bedard of Stephens took fourth spot.

Gould swept the first three places in the low hurdles, Freddy Lincoln, Stan Clark, and Steve Karpowich taking, respectively, the first three. Provencher of Stephens grabbed fourth. The winning time was 16 seconds.

When everything was tallied, Gould was out in front with 98 points; Stephens was second with 42 points, and Mexico trailed with 3 points.

GOULD POUNDS MEXICO

Led by slugging right fielder, Bob Felt, our defending champions gained their third straight win at the expense of Mexico on the Mexico field. Al Sumner went the route as the powerful Gould offense kept him out of trouble all the way. Felt had a perfect day with 4 for 4 including a home run blast. Art Leavitt started for Mexico but was lifted in the 6th inning.

Conference Champions Start Strong

SOUTH PARIS VS. GOULD

South Paris took the lead in the Western Maine Conference on May 1. The game, originally to be played on the Gould diamond, was shifted to South Paris due to a morning rain at Bethel.

From the first inning on, it was really Alton Swan, the South Paris pitcher, who controlled the game. Although deprived of a no-hitter by a single hit by Steve Watson in the fifth, Swan never was in deep trouble; he helped his own cause with a double and a triple.

The game left Gould in second place in the league of six teams; at this early date in the season this will not by any means put Gould out of the running for the title.

GOULD OPENS DEFENSE

Gould Academy, last year's Western Maine Conference Champions, downed Norway in a hard-fought battle. The Huskies picked up five runs in the first inning off George Hill, the Norway pitcher, on just one hit. The boys wrapped it up with three tallies in the third. Gould added three more runs in the final three frames off Leon Freeman, relief pitcher.

Cummer, Felt and Edwards played well for Gould. The Huskies, although a little ragged, show the potential of another championship team.

Prospects: Good

Once again Nature has completed her miracle of changing the seasons, and with the coming of Spring, we see the track boys out warming up in their sweatsuits.

This year, coaches Roderick and Scott have about fifty eager boys out for track, ten of these being returning lettermen. They are Eric Wight, Bob Weston, Steve Yeaton, Don Christie, Larry Cummings, Stan Clark, and Tim Carter. Other men back from last year include Newt Ferris, Rupert Grover, Dick Graves, Mike Hathaway, Kink and Jeff Newsom, Pete Stowell, Larry Sprague, Greg Shapiro, John Todd, Royden Ward, Gary Aluisi, Jim Bennett, Chuck Elyper, and George Elliot.

So, it appears that there are a lot of old hands around to help out the new fellows. The new blood includes Jim Linnell, Dave Ayers, Pete Anderson, B. Allen, W. Stowell, R. Angvine, Mark Bennett, Guy Burnham, John Cole, Yvonne and Dave Favreau, Ken Pease, John Philiney, Allen Ring, Pete Swallow, Nelson Smith, Jim Weston, Glen Whitehouse, Mark Freeman, Gary Hill, Bill Kinsman, Steve Karpowich (he's another one of those "disappointed baseball players"), John Kelley, Pete Mendall, and Wayne Perry.

Coach Roderick says that, while the opposition has not been too formidable yet this season, he does feel that we shall Spring is here and that means Baseball! All over the United States, the smack of the old fast ball hitting the mitt and the crack of the bat can be heard.

Gould Academy's varsity squad, defending league champions, started limbering up in the field house in the middle of March. As soon as the snow left the field, the team began work in earnest under the direction of Coach Bowhay.

Prospects of a good season are guaranteed. This year's squad, led by Captain Linwood Small at shortstop, ought to be as strong as any in the area. Fireballing letterman Al Sumner will have able company at the mound in Clarkson Edwards and Paul Collins, who both show promise.

Lettermen include Doug Rice behind the plate, Pete Wheeler at 2nd and outfield, slugging Bob Felt in right field, and big Steve Watson, dependable first sacker.

Up from J. V.'s this year are Jeff Hutchins and scrappy little Don Rice. Dave Stowell, Jimmy Merrill, and Dick Ramage round out the squad.

Coach Berry's J. V.'s should look forward to a good season also. There is a lot of promising material among the eager sophomores and freshmen.

Good luck to both squads and their coaches. Batter-Up!!

continue to give a good account of ourselves.

A MOMENT OF RESPECTFUL SILENCE FOR POOR FARNSWORTH

WHO'S WHO IN GIRLS' SPORTS

With softball coming up as well as spring tennis, these girls have been cited as outstanding in these particular sports as having a complete versatility in the entire sports world.

The seniors are proud to have Evelyn Winslow on all their teams not only because she's so good, but because they'd hate to play against her. Evelyn's ability is easily recognized in all sports, but especially in volleyball, hockey and as a great catcher in softball. She excels in ability and leads her team in sportsman-like behavior, which can only mean one thing for the senior class: more victories on the muddy field this spring!

The juniors cite Donna Smith for her outstanding ability in sports. Although she participates eagerly in all sports, she really excels in basketball and hockey. In basketball, it seems that she can sink a basket from anywhere on the floor! And there never was anyone who could dribble and fake a pass on the hockey field like she does! Donna certainly is a welcome member of any sports team.

Mary Willard is among the outstanding sports in her class. She aids the sophomores in many of their hard-earned and well-deserved victories: softball, hockey, volleyball, and basketball. Acting as a competent assistant ski manager on the G. A. A. Council, Mary has done a commendable job. She's a wicked woman with a bat in her hand; so take notice as softball rolls around!

Just getting started in her sports program here at Gould, the freshman's Nancy Cole is making great sports progress. Due to a broken finger, Nancy was more or less benched at the end of the basketball season, but she progressed rapidly with her siding. Nancy is a very probable candidate for the ski team next year. Judging from her excellent showmanship as well as sportsmanship on the tennis team last fall, we are expecting to see Nancy on the courts this spring, waging a match against a Kents Hill racketmaster. Sparkling her class now, we're sure that Nancy will be doing the same three years from now.

GIRLS' APPARATUS DEMONSTRATION

For the past nine weeks the Gould girls have been working on the over-enjoyed trampoline, rings, horse, parallel bars, and mats during their respective gym classes.

On April 22, 1969, at 3:30 p. m., in the girls' gym, the girls gave an Apparatus Demonstration. This demonstration showed all the progressions for each stunt on each piece of equipment. The students, parents, and friends were appalled at some of the tricks that were performed, such as three people on the tramp, the headstands and handstands on the horse, cross hang on the parallel bars, and a combined set invented hang on the rings. Added enjoyment besides the background music was provided by three clowns who were unsuccessful at most everything they attempted. With the demonstration comes the end of the indoor gym for the girls; on to softball.

GOULD J. V. SQUAD DUMPS HEBRON

Led by good fielding and hitting, the Gould J. V. baseball squad took their opening game from the Hebron Academy J. V. squad, 4-2. Looking good on the mound for Gould were Dick Yonk and Steve Saunders. Salisbury, Merrill and Hawkes looked good both in the field and in the batter's box. The jayvees showed good form and should provide many stars for future varsity teams.
